The EURASIAN CHARTER of BUSINESS EDUCATION

Multilateral International Agreement on Educational and Scientific Cooperation

Recognizing that the world is changing, we also recognize that universities are transforming towards multi-polarity and Eurasian economic integration. We are aware of the need for a NEW FORMAT of the EDUCATIONAL COMMUNITY AS a MECHANISM for developing new levels, degrees, formats and standards of business education in the Greater Eurasia macro-region.

We are creating a new mechanics of Eurasian integration and perceive the university as an integrator of tools directly related to Eurasian economic integration – through training and education in order to:

1. Support and develop local education traditions and institutions in Eurasia;
2. Create the united business education system for the continent and wider;
3. Implement traditional values and cultural foundations in business education;
4. Strengthen the importance of Eurasian business education globally;
5. Bring the quality of Eurasian business education to the highest level;
6. Launch our own alternatives to external education standards;
7. Train and retain young business talents in their home regions;
8. Promote the development of the national economies in the Eurasian countries;
9. Accelerate innovative entrepreneurship and technological breakthrough and finally
10. Return to Eurasia the historical status of the education leader.

So we, the undersigned authorized representatives of educational institutions, hereby affirm and establish the basic values and principles of international cooperation carried out by our educational institutions in the field of business education.

We share the values set out in the Charter, agree to follow the principles of equality and cooperation within the scope of our competence, and strengthen interaction between all stakeholders in order to create updated Eurasian standards of business education.

The Signatories to this Charter,

- motivated by the desire to contribute professional knowledge and skills to the economic and social progress of Eurasia;
- based on the principles of sustainable development, standards and rules of scientific, educational and entrepreneurial activities;
- implementing principles that ensure progress in academic, technological, economic integration and other areas;
- aiming to create and develop Eurasian educational standards in the Greater Eurasia macro region;
- based on the prospects for further steps in the progressive development of society, economy and education in Eurasia;
- aware of the need for coordinated development of innovative solutions and technologies in business education for the socioeconomic development of the Eurasian countries;
- expressing firm conviction that business education is crucial for the economic and social development of Eurasia;
- striving for Eurasian integration in the economy, education and science, have agreed as follows:

1. Establishment of the international alliance.

By this Charter, the undersigned representatives of organizations establish the Business Eurasia Education Alliance as an international association of legal entities in the field of business education. Next – the Alliance.

Educational institutions, government, commercial and non-profit organizations, public and professional associations, and institutes can become members of the Alliance.

Organizations that, after the entry into force of this Charter, have the status of parties to this Charter on an equal basis with others that have assumed obligations under this Charter.

The Alliance has powers that are voluntarily transferred to it by the parties to this Charter. Organizations, when signing this Charter, remain independent and equal subjects of law.

2. Basic values.

The signatories of the present Charter assume that the Eurasian education system is centered on:

- Spirituality and perception of knowledge as a gift;
- Traditional social and family values;
- Trust in national traditions and methods of education;
- Respect for the cultural roots of the local school;
- The desire to observe the philosophical principles of social harmony (Man-Nature-Society, Heaven-Earth-Man, etc.);

The Secretary General also performs international representative functions, acts as an official and represents the Alliance at the level of international organizations and diplomatic missions.

From the moment of signing the Charter until the first General Assembly, the Acting Secretary General is elected from among the members of the General Council by a simple majority vote.

Board of Directors and Executive Director.

The Board of Directors is the main executive body of the Alliance. The Board consists of: the Executive Director of the Alliance, who is the Chairman of the Board, and deputies (field directors and regional directors). Decisions of the Board may not be taken without the approval of the Executive Director.

The Board of Directors and the Executive Director are responsible for:

- issues related to the implementation of projects and programs of the Alliance;
- functioning of the headquarter and regional offices;
- human resources and financial support of the Alliance's policies;
- information technology issues

etc.

The Executive Director also performs international representative functions, acts as an official and represents the Alliance at the level of international organizations and diplomatic missions.

From the moment of signing the Charter to the moment of holding the first General Assembly, Acting Chairman of the Board of Directors. The Executive Director is appointed by the decision of the Interim General Council by a simple majority of votes and forms the composition of the Interim Board of Directors.

Business Council.

The Alliance Business Council is a collegial supervisory body. Members of the Council are representatives of partner organizations of the Alliance. Newly joined Charter members may be included in the Council on the basis of a corresponding collective decision taken by a simple majority of votes.

The Council is responsible for discussing and adopting recommendations sent to the Alliance President. Decisions of the Council cannot be made without the approval of the Alliance President.

From the moment of signing the Charter, the first composition of the Business Council is formed by the Acting President of the Alliance.

The structure and activities of the Council are determined by a separate Regulation approved by the General Assembly.

Academic Council.

The Academic Council has advisory functions and consists of representatives of scientific and educational organizations invited to join the Council by members of the General Council and the Board of Directors – by decision of the President.

From the moment of signing the Charter, the first member of the Academic Council is formed by the Acting President of the Alliance.

The structure and activities of the Council are determined by a separate Regulation approved by the General Assembly.

Youth Council.

The Youth Council has advisory functions and consists of young scientists and specialists – representatives of the Alliance's member organizations.

From the moment of signing the Charter, the first composition of the Youth Council is formed by the Acting President of the Alliance.

The structure and activities of the Council are determined by a separate Regulation approved by the General Assembly.

5. Location of the Alliance's management bodies.

By decision of the General Council, the Alliance's governing bodies may be located on the territories of various states and administrative-territorial entities, representative offices (offices) and its structural divisions may be opened, which must carry out their activities on the basis of a separate Provision taking into account the legislation of the host State.

At the same time, each of the regional offices is managed and financed by one of the Alliance's member organizations, in agreement with the General Council.

6. Working languages.

The Alliance's working languages are Russian, Turkish, Chinese, Arabic, and English.

7. Validity period and entry into force.

This Charter is valid indefinitely and is open for accession by legal entities. The Charter comes into force from the moment of its signing.

8. Changes and additions.

By the decision of the General Assembly, amendments and additions may be made to this Charter, which are formalized by a separate protocol, which is an integral part of this Charter.

9. Alliance headquarters.

The headquarters of the Alliance is created by a decision of the General Assembly.

10. Additional provisions.

Relations not regulated by this Charter are regulated by the current national legislation of the host State, generally recognized principles and norms of international law.
